Mysterious Apartment House Burglar Is Baffling Police

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Weidman of 191 East Doran street were the victims yesterday afternoon of a thief, who entered their apartment, ransacked their belongings and departed with over $100 worth of solid silver, a camera, jewelry and other belongings.

Mr. Weidman was away at business and Mrs. Weidman came down town to attend a picture theatre, and during their absence the robbery was committed.

According to the story told by a woman living in the next apartment, she heard some one in the Weidman's apartment about 4 o'clock. Knowing that Mr. and Mrs. Weidman were neither one at home, she listened carefully, and, after hearing drawers and trunk tops slammed, she decided to go over and knock on the door with a pretence of borrowing something.

She took a cup in her hand and got out in the hall in front of the Weidman apartment door and became so frightened that she re-

Roman Catholic Prelate Shot To Death By Soviet

MOSCOW, April 3.—The Rev. Father Butkiewicz, Roman Catholic prelate, who was sentenced to death at the same time as Archbishop Cieplak, has been executed, it was formally announced today.

The manner of death was not described, but it is supposed he was shot.

Rev. Father Butkiewicz was a Pole by birth. He was arrested at the same time as Archbishop Cieplak and fifteen other prelates, all charged with working against the Moscow soviet government. When he was condemned to death last week along with the archbishop, protests were made against the sentence. While the archbishop's sentence was commuted to ten years' imprisonment, the sentence of the priest was unchanged.

The basis of the charges against the prelates dated back to the war between Russia and Poland. Churchmen of Polish birth were accused of having "treasonable intercourse with the enemy in war time."

Archbishop Cieplak, it is understood, will be taken from Moscow immediately to enter upon his sentence. He is an old man and his friends declare that he will not live through the first year if kept in solitary confinement.

Before announcement had been made that Father Butkiewicz was dead, a report was circulated he would be exchanged for communist prisoners held by foreign countries.

FIGHT OVER DISTRICTS IS AGAIN PRESSED

Reapportionment Question Is Discussed; Northern Paper Favors Action

Special to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, April 3.—The illness of Assemblyman Edwin Baker of Los Angeles, author of the reapportionment measure, will cause the consideration of that subject today to be continued, it is predicted by Frank C. Weller, Glendale assemblyman.

While Mr. Baker has been stricken with pneumonia, it seems that others have taken up the fight and a general disposition to reapportion the state, according to constitution, is now noted. Perhaps this is due to Assemblyman William Hornblower's remark, "Constitution or no constitution there will be no reapportionment as far as San Francisco is concerned."

Makes It Plain Duty
The natural reaction has set in and today we note in the Chicago Morning Record the following editorial, similar to that of the Sacramento Union, in which it says:

"It is difficult to determine just why the members of the legislature from central and northern California continue to oppose reapportionment of the state into senatorial and assembly districts if they have any regard for their oaths to support the constitution of the state of California."

"The constitution plainly makes it a duty of the legislature to divide the state each ten years into legislative districts in accordance with population as shown by the United States census. Population is made the basis of representation under the constitution. The fact that the southern part of California made greater gains at the last census than the central and northern parts and therefore if reapportionment is made will gain in representation is beside the question."

No Kind of Excuse
"There is no excuse morally, legally or otherwise for the legislature to refuse to act as directed by the fundamental law of the commonwealth. A law enacted (Continued on Page 9)

50,000 Employees At Krupp Works On Brief Strike

By S. D. WEYER
For International News Service

ESSEN, April 3.—Fifty thousand employees of the Krupp works went on a twenty-four-hour strike today in protest against the arrest of four directors, following the French attack against Krupp workers on Saturday, which resulted in eleven deaths.

Public funeral services will be conducted Saturday for the Germans. Private ceremonies will be tomorrow. The four Krupp directors are being held in Warden prison, charged with responsibility for the shooting. French officers allege the directors incited the German workers to threaten the French and that the latter fired when they feared they were about to be attacked by overwhelming numbers.

German doctors demanded an opportunity to examine the dead. Later it was claimed ten of the persons who had been shot were wounded in the back. Herr von Boehler, husband of Bertha Krupp, chief owner of Krupp, angrily denied he was going to leave Essen.

"I see that the lie has been spread already that I have left Essen," he said. "I am here. That is enough contradiction for that. I am going to stick to my men. I am not going to run away. My men stuck to me."

The Krupps are preparing an elaborate defense for the arrested directors.

DELINQUENTS TO FACE DISTRAINT

Revenue Collector Ordered
To Start Drive for Unpaid Taxes

Special instructions have been received by Collector Rex Goodell from Commissioner of Internal Revenue, directing him to inaugurate a warrant of distraint drive covering the entire southern California district and starting at once. The drive is aimed at delinquent taxpayers and the warrants of distraint will be served on any property they may possess.

The order received by Collector Goodell is an emergency procedure and states that "Information received in the bureau indicates that there are many unserved warrants for distraint in the various collection districts. As delay in serving these warrants results in loss of revenue, it is imperative that this work be made current at the earliest date possible. Therefore, beginning on April 2, you will assign, for a period of one month, your entire available field force to the work of serving warrants for distraint, excepting those deputies required to audit income tax returns, and such deputies as may be detailed for special investigations by this office."

It is estimated that thousands of dollars of old taxes will be collected during the drive. Collector Goodell urges taxpayers who are delinquent to call at his office and make arrangements for payment before the serving of distraint warrants is started.

Claims for Refunds
Special administrative measures for carrying into effect far-reaching amendments to the revenue act of 1921, adopted during the closing days of the last session of congress, with respect to claims for refund, and credit of income, war profit or excess-profit taxes, were outlined in instructions received from Washington by Collector Goodell.

These changes in the revenue law are of especial importance to taxpayers of the southern California district, as claims for refund, credit and abatement of income taxes amounting to $18,500,000 have been filed in the district alone and are now pending, and new claims are being filed daily. These claims run as far back as 1917 and range from $20 to $180,000 each. One Hollywood motion picture concern has claims for refund pending that amount to $170,000, dating back to 1917.

Until March 4, 1923, the effective date of the amendment, a claim for refund or credit of an amount of income, war-profits or excess-profits taxes, erroneously or illegally collected, could be allowed after five years from the date when the return was due, even though the claim was not filed by the taxpayer until after the expiration of the five years, if the claim was presented to the commissioner of internal revenue within four years next after payment of the tax. After March 4, 1923, however, the effective date of the amendment, a claim for credit or refund may be allowed or made after five years from the date when the return was due if claim therefor is filed either within six years from the time the return for the taxable year 1917 was due or within two years from the time the tax was paid. The effect of this amendment is to grant to those taxpayers who, prior to the expiration of the five-year period, an additional assessment could be made, filed a waiver for the year 1917, an additional year in which to present their claims for refund or credit of the excessive tax paid for the year 1917, with the result that in such cases the claim may be entertained if filed either within six years after the return was due or within two years from the time the tax was paid. The statute provides for the filing of the period within which a claim may be filed in cases where the taxpayer has filed a waiver of his right to have the taxes due for the taxable year 1917 determined and assessed within five years after the return was filed, and the waiver provided for therein does not involve the consent in writing of both the commissioner of internal revenue, and the taxpayer to a determination, assessment and collection of the tax at a time later than five years from the time the return was filed. Consequently, the acceptance by the commissioner of a waiver filed by a taxpayer within five years from the time the return for the taxable year 1917 was due, is not necessary in order to bring the case under section 252 of the revenue act of 1921, as amended, and to extend the period within which a claim for refund may be filed to six years from the time the return for such year was due.

Provides for Suit
The act further amends section 252 to provide that, where a tax has been paid by a withholding agent in excess of that properly due, the refund or credit of such excess amount shall be made to the taxpayer, unless the amount is withheld by the withholding agent. The amendment of section 2226 of the revised statutes allows the bringing of a suit or proceeding for the recovery of any internal revenue tax alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed.

Do You Know
Your Banker?

BANKS are warehouses of credit. They allocate it to worthy individuals and enterprises. These are entitled to that credit not merely upon their ability to pay at some future date the obligations which they incur, but also upon their good character and reputation for honesty.

Reputations grow from acquaintance. The banker gains his knowledge of a customer through business acquaintance with him—even though it be limited to occasional visits to the savings department with deposits.

Banking acquaintance is important to every man. It is a most valuable asset to business progress. It should be cultivated.

WANT SONGS FOR COMMUNITY PLAY

Local Versesmiths May Win Prizes for Poems for Fun Revue

Poets, would-be poets, verse-writers and others stricken with the lyric muse will have ample outlet for their exuberance, it is announced by Miss Dorothy Morton, secretary of the Glendale Community players, who are planning the presentation on April 19 and 20 of their "Fun Revue."

One of the musical numbers, which is to be given by Steven Huntington and Clarence Edwards, is the famous comic song, "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean," and prizes are being offered through the courtesy of local merchants for the two best topical or parody verses written in imitation of the verse that follows:

Oh, Mister Gallagher, Oh, Mister Gallagher,
Once I think I saw you save a lady's life,
In a rowboat out to sea. You were a hero then to me,
And I thought perhaps you've made this girl your wife.
Oh, Mister Shean; Oh, Mister Shean,
As she sunk I dove down like a submarine,
Dragged her up upon the shore. Now she's mine for evermore.
Who? The lady, Mister Gallagher? No, the rowboat, Mister Shean.

"Begin to send in verses right away," urges Miss Morton. "The more the merrier! We will pick interesting verses as they are received, and send them to the local papers, with the name of the author appended. And on the nights of the presentation of our Revue, the prizes will be presented."

Contributions should be sent to Miss Dorothy Morton, 114 West Milford street.

Lauds City Council For Bus Permit Grant

Editor The Evening News—I wish a few lines in your valuable paper to express my views in regard to the bus line permit.

As a resident of Glendale and a taxpayer I wish to express my thanks to the City Council for granting the bus line permit as it is a start to help Glendale transportation.

I don't know Mr. Gulick, but I am glad to know that some one has the nerve to buck the Pacific Electric and I wish to say in answer to Geoffrey Edwards and his stunts at the bus line, if we had a few more public-spirited men like Mr. Edwards the rest of us would have to move or move the town.

Harding World Court Plan Absurd, Says Cox

ATLANTA, Ga., April 3.—"Nothing could be more absurd than for President Harding to go before the people and before the next congress with his appeal for American membership in the international court," James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920, declared here today.

Cox arrived in Atlanta for a day's visit en route from Florida to his home in Dayton, Ohio.

Deny Jury Hearing to Farrar Co-respondent

NEW YORK, April 3.—Miss Stella Larrimore, an actress, formerly in Lou Tellegen's company, who was mentioned as a co-respondent in the Gertrude Farrar divorce suit, was denied the right today of a jury hearing. She had requested it to clear herself of the allegations.

The opinion declared a co-respondent in a divorce action had no vested right to demand a jury trial.

American Author Has Liking for England

LONDON, April 3.—"Carol Kennicott" and "George Babbitt" should have come to London. Here they might, for once, have found nothing to complain of. Sinclair Lewis, their literary father, has told Britons, how barbarous Americans are and what a fine place London is to live in. Here are a few things the author of "Main Street" announced:

"London is the most comfortable city on earth. That is why I have come here. I can live and write in greater peace here than anywhere else in the world. No one cares what you do in England. If people disapprove of your way of living they leave you alone. In America everyone tries to convert everyone else. No one is too bad or unworthy for proselytizing."

"Here courtesy is more general. Servants are more skillful, one's privacy is more complete, the streets are less noisy, people are less earnest, and above all, there is less hustle. In America men spend so much time being efficient that there is no time left in which to do the work itself. The American spends hours filing letters and holding unnecessary conferences. The Englishman does his work and goes out to enjoy himself. Hustling is largely a fake."

Three Main Points
Presentation of the administration's record in foreign affairs is expected to be based on three principal cornerstones:

1—What has been done in the Far East.
2—In Latin America, and
3—In the first case, the achievements of the Washington armament conference and the four-power pact. Guaranteeing the peace of the Pacific will be held up as epochal accomplishments and as having prevented a possible war with Japan, which many international observers had predicted as possible before many years.

In Latin America, the recent Central American conference, at which the various small republics of the south agreed to stop continual petty warfare of the last quarter of a century, will be pointed to as a tremendous step in the direction of permanent peace in this hemisphere. American mediation of the dispute between Peru and Chile and between Costa Rica and Panama, will be dwelt upon in this connection.

Europe's Troubles
The European policy of the administration is looked upon by the president's advisers as being simple in presentation, though the president will simply state that conditions in Europe have been such as to preclude American intervention without becoming hopelessly entangled in world politics, and consequently the United States has remained "butting in" abroad in a situation where American help plainly was unwelcome.

Mr. Harding was on the last lap of his vacation this week. Here in Georgia he continued his Florida habit of daily golfing, going out soon after breakfast to spend the entire forenoon on the links. Hunt Body in Wreckage Of Blazing Oil Train

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 3.—J. F. Licking, conductor of a terminal tank train, is believed dead and his body incinerated beneath a mass of burned wreckage following collision of a Clover Leaf freight train and a terminal train made up of oil tankers here today.

Three other trainmen, J. Walding, a flagman; A. W. Thomas, engineer, and W. H. Farris, fireman, were probably fatally injured as the result of scalds and other hurts.

The wreck occurred when the Clover Leaf freight, traveling at high speed, plowed through the wooden caboose of the terminal train. The force of the collision set fire to the oil in the last tank and soon the entire wreckage was in flames. The fire spread rapidly, eating up telephone and telegraph poles as well as the freight cars.

Members of a rescue crew had a narrow escape, when a short time after the fire started, the bridge over the Maumee river, supporting the tangled trains, crashed, one going into the ravine below.

PRESIDENT WILL PRESENT RECORD

Harding to Ask Support of Nation in Policies, Is Prediction

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service
AUGUSTA Ga., April 3.—President Harding is planning a frank appeal to the country to support the foreign policy of this administration, it was learned here.

A considerable portion of the speeches which he will deliver on his western tour this summer will be devoted to a vigorous exposition and defense of the foreign policies which have been pursued for the last two years. Something more than a defense of the Republican policy is planned—instead of simply defending the record, the president plans to make a militant presentation of the accomplishments of his administration and then challenge the Democrats and the critics within his own party to a public comparison of policies. Mr. Harding will appear in the role of an apologist, but rather as an apostle of achievement, according to those who are concerned with mapping his trip and his program.

COMMENT That's All

Clean City Kept Clean! Everybody Should Assist Clyde Seavey In Politics His Attitude Unfortunate

—By Gil A. Cowan—

CLEAN UP! Such a campaign for Glendale is great stuff. Think of the slogan, "A Clean City Kept Clean."

It is a tribute to civic pride to see the Chamber of Commerce getting behind a drive to make Glendale the beauty spot of Southern California, or rather keep it so.

Now, everybody lend a hand. Clean up!

Often times we grow stale writing our views on the political situation in California. The Sacramento Union expresses our sentiments in the following:

Not elected by the vote of the people, not subject to their control or recall, majestic in the almost imperial power of the high office he occupies, elevated to such office through an eleven hour executive order of our late and personally estimable governor, William D. Stephens, Clyde L. Seavey, president of the railroad commission, has publicly denounced, in terms most scathing, the first really constructive fiscal program ever submitted to the people of this state, and has characterized it as a "politically expedient" budget.

Seavey is a creation of the public press.

Speaking, several days ago in the senate chamber, to an audience relatively small, but knowing, better than anyone present, that everything he said would be seized upon by that portion of the public press which day by day has poisoned the minds of the people of the state against anything and everything that Governor Richardson has done or attempted to do, Seavey characterized Nellie B. Pierce, member of the state board of control, as "basking in the light of gubernatorial economic fancy and fostering ruinous principles that the budget bespeaks."

Seavey hurled defiance in the face of the chief magistrate of this state, by claiming that the governor's budget should not be seriously considered by the legislature or the people.

Seavey also, in his more or less demagogic talk, appealed to class prejudice and hatreds, claiming that he doubted if the burdens of taxation in the state were equally imposed upon individual citizens and corporate organizations.

Seavey made the same mistake in his confusion of issues in discussing railroad commission appropriations that he repeatedly made during his term of city manager of this city, and during his former service on the state board of control. He does not appear to be able to distinguish between situations demanding the expression of an opinion upon the official business at hand, and a personal and prejudiced opinion upon some of its incidental aspects.

For that reason he could not stay within the limits that would be expected at a joint hearing on railroad commission needs, but went far afield into a bitter attack upon the governor and the budget makers.

If Seavey's latest public harangue is indicative of the attitude of the members of the entire state railroad commission, it is rather unfortunate for that most august and powerful body, and likewise for the personal political future of its president.

The railroad commission of this state began its existence with a reputation for fair mindedness towards the public utilities, and more than a just sympathy for the right of those who patronize them, or depend upon them for service.

That commission is no longer regarded as a body acting with judicial impartiality, but because of actions similar to those of its president in discussing the budget needs of the railroad commission, is regarded as a gross political and prejudiced agency of the state government.

It is unfortunate for Seavey himself, for it means that whatever reputation as an executive he has built up through his previous service to the state is being dissipated.

It further means that he has joined in an unscrupulous scramble for the governorship, using his high office not for the service of the people of the state, but as a vantage point to further his own political ambitions.

It's usually a sign of sick kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered, passages scanty or too frequent. Don't wait for more serious troubles. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this convincing testimony.

E. L. Summers, 526 E. 8th St., Long Beach, Cal., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have done me a lot of good and I gladly recommend them to anyone having kidney complaint. I consider Doan's the best remedy for this trouble. I had attacks of backache that made me feel miserable and I could hardly bend or stoop. The action of my kidneys annoyed me considerably, too. OF GLENDALE

CAPITAL $75,000.00

Now Open for Business

233 South Brand Blvd.

The purpose of our Organization is to assist the 10,000 wage earners, salaried people and others of Glendale and vicinity to properly finance themselves.

UNTIL A FEW YEARS AGO PERSONS IN THE UNITED STATES WITHOUT PROPERTY or gift edge collateral, regardless of how good their character or how great their earning ability, had no credit in a business sense. If credit was extended to them it was given as a personal favor. They could cast their ballot and contribute their portion of tax levies, but they could not borrow a dollar without paying the Loan Shark's ruinous rate of interest or applying to some charitable loan agency.

THE PEOPLE'S FINANCE AND THRIFT COMPANY OF GLENDALE was created to meet the demands of these people. The company is officered and managed by some of Glendale's best business men and financiers. They will confine their efforts to the financing of the wage earners, salaried people and others of Glendale in sums of from $25 upwards, at 6 per cent plus a nominal fee for investigations and clerical service. Re-payments may be made in small weekly, semi-monthly or monthly payments to suit the borrower.

LOANS WILL BE MADE ON THE BASIS OF CHARACTER AND EARNING ABILITY. No assignments of wages nor pledges are demanded. No publicity or unnecessary delays.

IF YOU'RE HONEST AND NEED MONEY FOR ESSENTIAL PURPOSES, a call at our institution will solve your problem for you. You will be placed on the same financial basis that the business man enjoys through his banking connections, and can borrow the money you need at a reasonable rate of interest.

IF YOU DO NOT NEED TO BORROW, MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK FOR YOU. Our Investment Certificates are SAFE and are redeemable in CASH. They pay you 6 per cent for your idle money. They may be purchased either for cash or on the installment plan. Interest payable semi-annually. Come in and let us explain this feature to you.

MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS WAS LOANED TO WAGE EARNERS in the United States by similar institutions during the year 1922, with a loss ratio of less than one-tenth of one per cent. This firmly establishes the fact THAT "CHARACTER PLUS EARNING ABILITY IS A PROPER BASIS OF CREDIT."

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO CALL AS A PATRON OR A GUEST. Further information cheerfully furnished upon application.

EMERY TALKS OF COMMUNITY FUNDCredit Association Members
Hear Preliminary Talk by President

Judge Owen E. Emery, president of the Glendale Credit Association, yesterday discussed the proposal to establish a Community Chest for Glendale, at the weekly luncheon of the organization in the Glen Inn on South Brand boulevard, his talk being in the nature of a preliminary consideration of the plan that has been broached on several occasions recently.

The object of the Community Chest is to provide a fund from which the demands of the various charitable and civic organizations could be met, without submitting the people of the city to a series of drives at intervals throughout the year, as it has been proven in many other cities that more money can be raised in one comprehensive campaign for the Community Chest than by the frequent drives that have become so common in the last few years. The accumulation of a Community Chest fund permits the city to set aside a certain amount of money for each organization that may be entitled to public support, and it has worked out so successfully in other cities that the amount received by such organizations has been, in many cases, far in excess of what they have been able to raise by individual campaigns.

The usual discussion of matters relating to the welfare of the association were taken up for discussion by the members present, and other routine work was also disposed of.

Legislative Session
To End May 7, Plan

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—May 7 today loomed as the probable date for final adjournment of the legislature. Resolutions setting this date for sine die adjournment have been prepared and were expected to be introduced today. Action will likely be delayed until later.

Governor Richardson's new budget recommendations are expected to reach the legislature before the end of the week, and this will pave the way for rapidly clearing up the business of the session, the reapportionment fight being the only other major issue.

Turks to Submit New
Peace Note to Allies

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 3.—The cabinet council of the Turkish government has ordered the allied peace note submitted to the national assembly today, said a despatch from Ankara. Another note from Turkey containing elucidations on the previous document containing counter peace proposals is expected within a day or two.

The national leader, Ismet Pasha, announced he expects to return to Lausanne for a renewal of the near east conference the end of this week.

New Calls Robberies
Of Mails Spasmodic

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Postmaster-General New does not believe the sporadic mail robberies in the middle-west will develop into an epidemic and drastic steps to curb such thefts will not be taken, it was stated at the post-office department.

Impressive Ceremonies Take Place
Last Night, With Number Of Past
Exalted Rulers Officiating

HUNDREDS of Elks gathered at the Glendale lodge last night to witness the impressive installation ceremonies performed on the officers-elect for 1923, whose advancement in Elksdom is this morning a matter of history.

Last night it was history in the making, with the ceremonies in charge of a number of the best known past exalted rulers in southern California, most of them from Pasadena, supplemented by representatives from Riverside and Glendale.

The only damper on the festivities was the absence of Earl S. Patterson and James F. McBryde, esteemed leading knight and esteemed lecturing knight respectively, both of whom were too ill to attend. They will be installed later by Glendale officers specially authorized by Dr. Frank D. Cason, district deputy, of Pomona.

Installing Officers
The personnel of the official installing corps follows: J. Andrew Ewing, past exalted ruler of the Pasadena lodge, representing the grand exalted ruler, and the following associates, all past or present exalted rulers of their lodges:

Harry M. Tichnor, grand esteemed leading knight, Pasadena.

Dr. W. A. Boucher, grand esteemed loyal knight, Pasadena.

C. Hal Reynolds, grand esteemed lecturing knight, Pasadena.

Harry Cheeseman, grand esquire, Pasadena.

A. P. Pearce, grand secretary, Glendale.

Bert Woodard, grand chaplain, Glendale.

Stephen C. Packer, grand tyler, Glendale.

C. D. Thom, grand trustee, Glendale.

F. D. Lewis, grand inner guard, Riverside.

The acting grand lodge of installing officers were entertained at a 6:30 o'clock dinner at the Harriet Mae tea rooms, and the installation ceremonies began at 8 o'clock, a large number of Elks crowding the spacious hall, which was beautifully decorated with wreaths of flowers for the occasion.

List of Officers
The list of Glendale officers-elect installed follows:
James A. Appfel, exalted ruler.
Gerald A. Dockeray, esteemed loyal knight.
Willis M. Kimball, secretary.
Jesse W. Headlee, tyler.
Herman Nelson, treasurer.
Irving H. Oliver, Daniel Kelly, Jr., and Joseph E. Wimmer, trustees.

Officers-elect Earl S. Patterson, esteemed leading knight; and James F. McBryde, esteemed lecturing knight, whose illness kept them at home, will be installed later, in the manner announced.

The following appointive officers were duly placed in office:

William Hunter, reappointed chaplain.

Walter W. Jones, moved up from inner guard to esquire.

G. H. Pulliam, appointed inner guard.

The appointive office of organist will be filled later.

Officers Give Talks

Following the impressive installation, came speeches from the various officers newly installed.

This was followed by a sextet of Chinese musicians, furnished by Ray L. Galvin, chairman of the jink committee. This novel entertainment proved very popular, the stringed instruments upon which these Orientals played giving forth most melodious strains, in the opinion of those present.

Presentations were then presented by the Glendale lodge to Arthur H. Dibbern, retiring exalted ruler. One of these presents was a beautiful and costly cabinet phonograph, with Past Exalted Ruler Dibbern's name on a solid gold plate, across the front. The other present tendered the retiring ruler by his lodge was a solid gold, engraved card case, in which to carry his Elks' membership card.

Following this, the entire company of Elks present retired to the grill room of the lodge, where a delightful buffet supper was served.

Who Is Who
James A. Appfel, present exalted ruler of the Glendale Elks' lodge, is a jewelry manufacturer with his business in Los Angeles, whose residence is at 347 North Maryland avenue.

Arthur H. Dibbern, past exalted ruler just retired, and elected a delegate to the grand lodge, is a local jeweler whose residence is at 512 East Lomita avenue.

Earl S. Patterson, esteemed leading knight-elect, is an attorney with offices in Los Angeles, whose residence for a number of years was in Glendale, is at present also in Los Angeles, at 288 South Coronado boulevard.

Gerald A. Dockeray, esteemed loyal knight, is with the Moreland truck company of Los Angeles, but lives in Glendale at 723 South Louise street.

James F. McBryde, esteemed lecturing knight-elect, is a local attorney, whose residence is at 108 East California avenue.

Popular Secretary
Willis M. Kimball, secretary, has held this position in the Glendale lodge for a number of terms,

Golfers Are Stunned by
Flash That Kills Companion, Survive

STOCKTON, April 3.—Jack Pond and Frances Hodgkins, members of the Stockton Golf and Country Club, were little the worse today from their experience of being struck by a bolt of lightning which killed their fellow clubman, Walter G. Hunter, widely known engineer and sportsman.

The bolt struck Hunter late Sunday afternoon as he was putting on the seventh green. Pond and Hodgkins said a ball of fire seemed to envelop him. They were rendered unconscious. It was the first instance on record of fatality from lightning in this section of the state.

Hunter was rushed to a hospital and the pulmotor applied without result. The side of the golfer's face was burned and the bolt apparently passed down the side of his chest and tore a shoe from his foot as it passed into the ground.

Hodgkins' hair was badly singed, his cap and hair being afire when he recovered consciousness after the lightning struck.

Drums and the Man
TODAY'S SHORT STORY BY
Ad Schuster

Claude Wipps played the drums in the Acme Theater orchestra, and Allie Taylor was usher in the third aisle. In those few minutes when the all but empty house waits the arrival of the first-comers, Claude arranged his cowbells, traps, triangle and the dozen or more contraptions which made his end of the pit a source of noises weird and effective. Allie walked up and down the aisle shaking a handful of programs. She paused at the brass rail near the drummer.

"What's doing in this aisle?" Claude asked. "Thought you had the trick in Number One."

Allie lifted her penciled brows in surprise. "Oh, I got shifted."

Back from showing a man to his seat, the girl returned to her position at the foot of the aisle. Her eyes fell on the music in front of the drummer.

"Do tell me," she asked, "why do drummers have music? For anyone knows all he does is beat the drum. There aren't any notes to his tune, are there?"

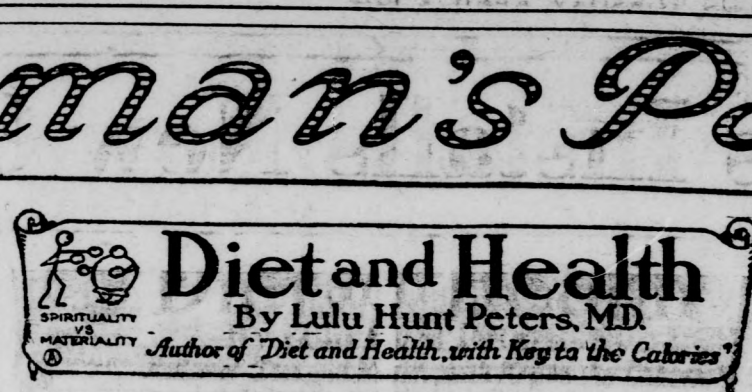

The drummer stared at the usher incredulously. "I have heard of cases of monumental ignorance," he started, "but yours is the worst. What's a drum? I do, bang drums like a kid does on a shipyard? Take a drum around here and keep your ears and eyes open when the overture starts. You'll see what I do. Why, girl, the drummer is the whole orchestra. He's the pep, the time, and the novelty all in one. They could not get along without him."

"Drummers," agreed Allie, as she started up the aisle, "have a very good opinion of themselves."

This was the beginning of the friendship. Each day Allie was instructed in the intricacies of one of the many tasks of the man at the end of the pit.

"Those other fellows," he said, "can show up five minutes before the overture, and all they have to do is tune up. Me, I gotta come early and install all of my stuff and tighten the drums, dust, brush and get everything laid out handy. Why, would you believe it, I have to jump from cowbell to kettle and back again seventeen times in one piece we're going to play next week."

Diet and Health
By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

(Note—I gave this article last year, but so many of you have written me about your undernourished children that I realize you must have missed the series. I am repeating this article now because it covers so many of the causes of malnourishment.)

"The other fellows," Allie believed in being tantalizing, "are musicians. Drummers, so far as I can see, are acrobats." And she smiled up the aisle in triumph.

The usher could see that the drummer was interested in her, and the knowledge added to the air of superior indifference which she knew was effective. The more Claude sought to win her favor, the more scornful she appeared of drummers.

"I'll string him on for a while," she said, "and then, maybe, I'll just admit that, in my opinion, the drummer really is about five-sixths of the orchestra."

She hummed as she passed out programs. "Did you ever see anybody look so noble as he does when he is waiting, all tense and expectant, for the right second to bring down the cymbal? And when he rattles that snare drum, I can hardly keep from dancing a jig."

The scornful manner softened by slow degrees, but still the girl kept the drummer wondering. Sometimes he thought she cared for him, and, better still, was learning to appreciate the drums. Allie leaned against the rail, and there was no one but Claude in the house.

"Say, girl, suppose we have some ice cream after the show, and let me take you home." He was unusually brave and confident. Allie's heart jumped, but she was not going to let him see how pleased she was.

"I have never been out with a drummer," she started. Claude leaned over the brass and sought her eyes.

"No," he said, "but you asked old Greening to shift you over to this aisle. Why did you do that?"

Allie blushed and let her hand drop where he could seize it. Then she laughed. "And when I asked him, he grinned and said it was very funny, but you had just asked him, as a personal favor, to move me over here."

"Then," the happy drummer said, "you know all the time."

"I know all the time I was terribly fond of drums and cowbells and whistles and—"

"And what?"

"And drummers—but here comes a kink which wants a seat."

BEAUTY CHATS
By EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

Charles D.: I would be glad to mail you the formula for a hair tonic which I think will help save your hair. In the meantime massage a small amount of olive oil into the scalp to relieve its dryness.

M. H.: Bleach the hair on your legs by giving it repeated applications of peroxide of hydrogen and it will not show through the stockings. This is much better than using a depilatory or shaving, as in each case the hair will grow again only much coarser than it was at first.

Pandora: If your skin is clear when you awaken in the morning and it will not show through the stockings, this is much better than using a depilatory or shaving, as in each case the hair will grow again only much coarser than it was at first.

Paul S.: A cream that is both healing and astringent is what your skin requires to counteract this tendency to chapping. That accounts for the lemon juice soothing it even more than an oil. An excellent lip salve for skin that softens any chaps is made by taking any good cream as a basis and adding to it as much powdered alum as will be needed to make it astringent. Try this out with a small quantity first, or have your druggist do it for you. If you were making the cream, spirits of camphor would be used to make it astringent instead of the alum, but it could not be beaten into a cream already made.

W. J. Z.: You will likely outgrow this tendency to pimples in another few years, but in the meantime do not aggravate by eating too many sweets. It will help much if you drink plenty of water between meals.

Waiting: There are plenty of cases in which the skin has been cleared of pimples through taking the yeast treatment, but if it does not show an effect on the skin in a week or two, I would not suggest that it should be continued.

I neither advise nor object to the use of these facial clays, as I realize it is sometimes to a woman's advantage to look extra well for an occasion, even though she must recover from it later. Most of these clays cleanse the pores while they are also absorbing all natural secretions in the skin. They are also astringent, which should be all right for skins that need it.

A youthful skin, or one that seems much old, would recover more quickly from this sort of treatment, but the older woman or the young one with a dry skin will find that she will have to feed her skin for several days with plenty of cream before there is a full recovery.

P. A. E.: You can consult any dermatologist about this, and if he does not perform the operation he can recommend someone who does; however, I should not advise you to have it done unless the nose is so badly shaped that it spoils your appearance.

After so many years ago spring housecleaning was an annual rite from which the housekeeper emerged a physical wreck. In those days every woman tried to beat her neighbor to the exhausting task; in public opinion the "good housekeeper" was she who began her cleaning early and kept at it with superhuman energy until it was finished.

But today housekeepers refuse to let their spring cleaning wear them out. They do the work gradually—sensibly. They take one room at a time and do not try to crowd the cleaning into two or three days.

Then there is another great difference between our day and our grandmother's; our modern ideal is to keep our houses hygienically clean the year round! We use a wool mop on our walls every month or so; we do over our floors at least twice a year; we keep our windows clean; we wash the woodwork frequently, and, above all, we keep our rugs, hangings and upholstery dust-free with a vacuum cleaner.

Of course in grandmother's day

Three Indicted on Jury Bribing Charge

WAUKEGAN, Ill., April 3.—Three men were indicted here on a charge of conspiracy to bribe the jury which acquitted Governor Small of misappropriating state interest funds. They are John Birnie Fields of Antioch, one of the jurors; Edward Courtney, an alleged gunman, and Edward Kaufman an alleged beer runner. The indictment contained fourteen counts. Bonds were fixed at $5,000 in each case and warrants issued for the arrest of the men. Grand jury proceedings then were adjourned until April 21.

The indictments charge that a plot was afoot to have Fields called as a juror and sworn, concealing from the court his alleged prejudice to a conviction. Indications that the activities of the Small jury are to be investigated were contained in one

THE UNWISE OLD LADY

"I guess it would be better if I hadn't lived quite so long."

That is what a certain old lady, who lives in the home of her daughter, says whenever she is asked to do her share in adjusting herself to the life of three generations as lived in one house. She is a nice enough old lady, but she has her faults, like the rest of us, and one of them is that familiar one among older folks of interfering too much with the children. This makes her son-in-law very cross, and sometimes he will protest or sometimes he will ask her to try to keep her hands (or rather her tongue) off.

A Grievance

And then the old lady always folds her hands and says with an injured air, "I guess it would be better if I hadn't lived quite so long." Thereupon she retires into a resentful silence and will not emerge from it until her daughter has humbled herself and reassured her.

In a child the silence would be called by a short name of four letters beginning with s and ending with k, but of course that would not be a word to use in connection with an old lady.

Poor little old lady, even though I know how wrong she is, and even though I am sorry for her daughter, who is often distraught with the effort to keep things harmonious, I am sorry for her, too. Because she plainly does not realize that the weapon she is using is one that is pretty sure to lose its keenness with too much use.

It is a tragedy that old folks should be allowed to feel that they really have lived too long; it is a sordid and wearying thing that old folks should use that phrase or that thought as a club over the heads of children who really are kind to them, to protect themselves from reasonable criticism.

Not Fair

Another old lady of whom I know, who has been in poor health for some years, thinks that her whole family ought to conduct themselves as if she were about to die at any time. True, she is very frail and might easily slip away; but, on the other hand, she has no progressive disease and there is no reason she should not live for years. And it is hardly fair to

Urge Action to Save California Forests

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—Setting forth that approximately 2,201,700 acres of forest land in California have been denuded and devastated by forest fires and lumbering, and that both the forests and water resources of the state are menaced by this situation, the state board of forestry has filed a special report with the legislature, recommending the adoption of an extensive reforestation program. The report, which was drawn at the request of the 1921 legislature, also urges increased appropriations for fire prevention work to offset further losses.

The forestry board recommends that seedling trees be planted on burned-over land.

In conclusion the report states: "The state board of forestry, therefore, earnestly recommends that the legislature provide, at its present session, at least for the beginning of tree planting upon the denuded and devastated lands of the state, whether they be publicly or privately owned; it being evident that denuded or devastated lands are a menace to the future prosperity of the people of California, no matter who may own such lands."

Gland Buyers Boost Chimpanzee Prices

CINCINNATI, April 3.—The hope that springs eternal, when age seeks to turn back the clock that stretches across months of time, may depopulate the Simian quarters of the forests in Africa, if the scarcity of chimpanzees may be used as a criterion.

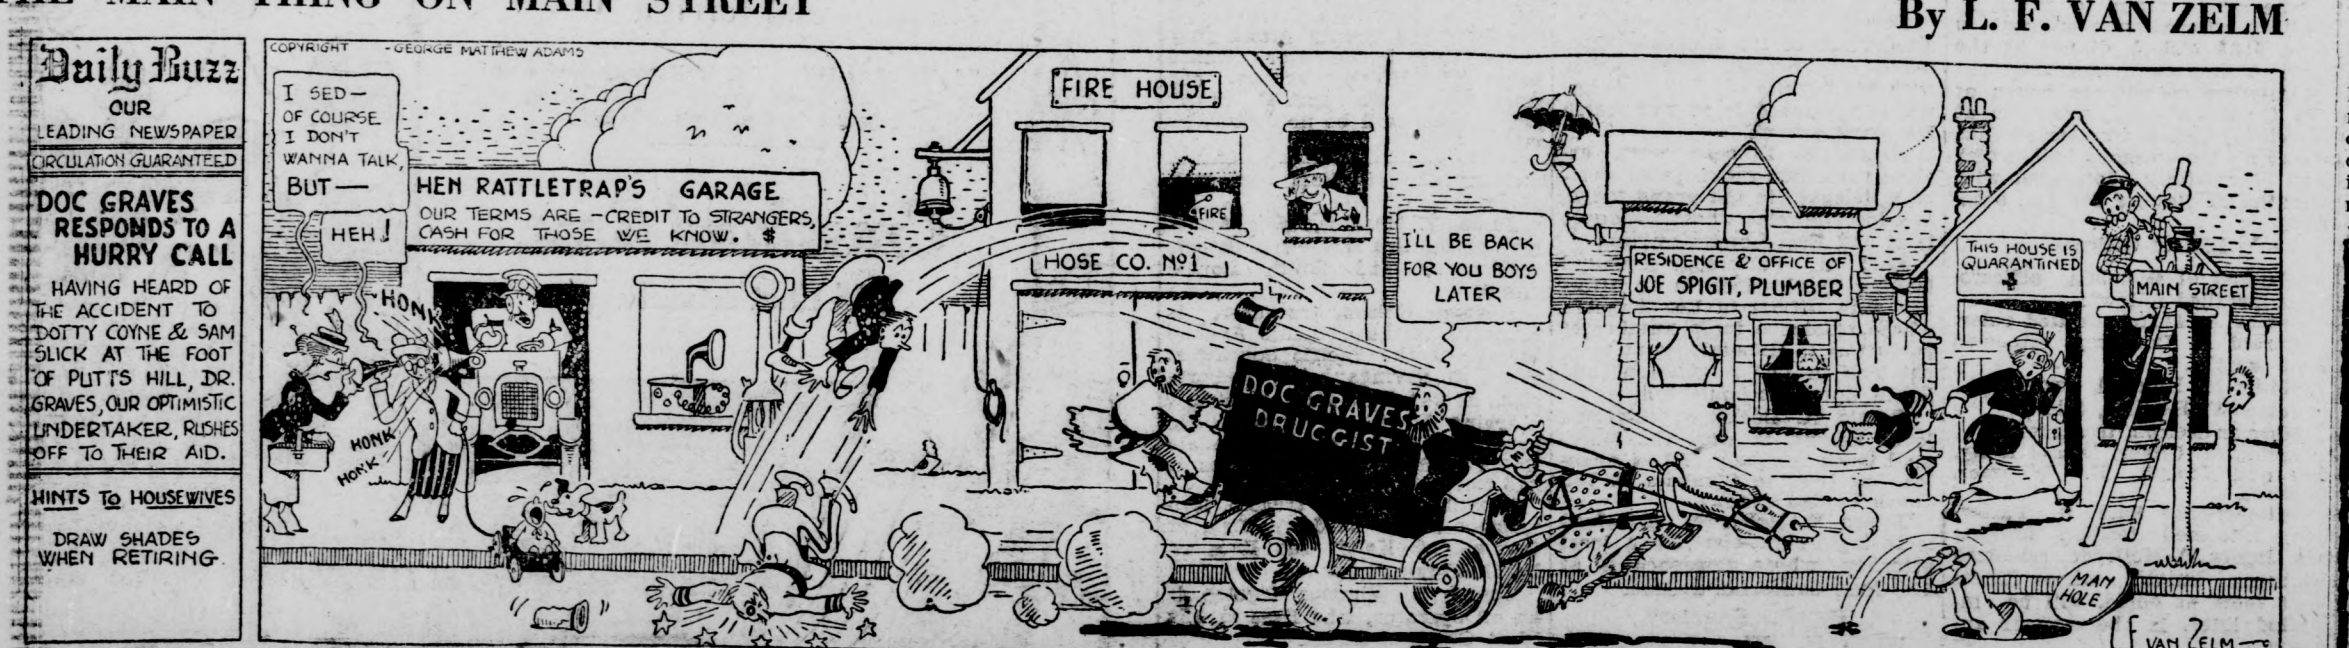

Sol A. Stephan, director of the Cincinnati zoo, made public a letter from Claud W. Bostock, widely known New York dealer in animals, to whom the director had applied for a chimpanzee to replace a representative of the species that had departed for monkey heaven.

Mr. Bostock replied that it was impossible to obtain male chimpanzees for exhibition purposes. He explained that American and European demands for monkey glands, sought by aged men to whom surgical rejuvenation methods had brought hope of renewed vigor, had boosted the prices on these animals from $5000 to $10,000.

PICKS GIANTS AS WINNERS IN 1923

Other Clubs in National League Look Easy for New Yorkers

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 3.—Judged upon surface indications, the National league situation has changed about as much as the detacher's professional smile since early October. The New York Giants were too much for the rest of the field at that time, much too much, and between seasons they are believed to have taken on additional strength while the other clubs have improved their chances but slightly, if at all.

If fate rules otherwise, the Giants figure to creak walk right on down to the wire for their third successive pennant.

We are not, however, picking winners at this stage of the fight, merely voicing what seems to be a palpable conclusion, there seemingly being neither necessity nor sense in concealing or evading this fact.

The world's champions are the same impressive outfit that succeeded in front-running the pack through the last two months of the 1922 season, with these exceptions.

Better Pitching

They are assured of sounder, most consistent pitching because Scott and McQuillan are available for the entire season and Jack Bentley is regarded as being able to deliver $65,000 worth of left hand pitching; Heinie Groh, who was handicapped by injuries last year, is expected to deliver in large quantity, and Jim O'Connell, the $75,000 beauty, should at least hold his own with the best of them.

The Reds are generally picked as the main contenders and they are as good as any of the rest. It is our opinion the young gentlemen playing ball for Pat Moran last year were just a bit beyond themselves. Daubert had a great year, but doesn't figure to repeat.

What with illness and middle age, the pitching lacks the consistency of championship baseball, and the fact that Roush is out again may hurt immeasurably. Roush can be a great help or hindrance to the club, as he chooses.

The Pirates haven't the pitching they had a year ago, nor is George Gibson the man to develop and steady the staff. Otherwise, they are the same ball club, plus the slugging Red Russell, near champions only.

Cubs Look Slow

As for the Cubs, they have a lot of young pitchers who may either go over big or not at all. In addition, they are a slow ball club and their infield defense is open to suspicion just as is the case with the St. Louis Cards. The latter are trying to replace Johnny Lavan with a young shortstop, who may be a champion or a chump in the long run, and Jim Bottomley at first base hasn't been in the league long enough to prove anything definitely.

Hi Myers fills a hole in the outfield and Fred Toney may improve the pitching, but not enough to carry a weak staff. The Cards have ceased to be serious contenders since last August.

A general house cleaning has set in with the Dodgers and a berth near the head of the second division should be theirs, particularly with the kind of pitching they can muster. They will have pitchers as long as your Uncle Robbie remains with the club.

The Phils and Braves are probably slightly improved outfits, but they have irremediable weaknesses that seem to consign them to the second division quite definitely. The Phils have no pitching, the Braves very little and neither is sufficiently endowed in other respects to offset this handicap.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN R. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

According to Joe Chynski, considered by many to have been the heaviest hitter of the old school of pugilists, the difference between the performers in the ring today as compared with a generation ago is that the old timer fought and nowadays they box.

"When a boxer today hits his opponent, he seems satisfied if he scores a touch. In the old days the idea was to carry punishment with every blow that landed." While this may be more or less a fact from a broad point of view, nevertheless, the number of knockouts that constantly are being recorded inclines one to the belief that perhaps Joe is a bit severe and is not giving as much credit to the youngsters as may be coming to them.

What is said to be the only army women's polo team in the country has been formed by the trained nurses at the Letterman General Hospital at the army cantonment, the Presidio of San Francisco.

Naturally they will have to seek their opponents among the men as there are no other feminine teams in that particular neck of the woods. The team is made up of Ruth I. Taylor, lieutenant in the army nurse corps; Miss L. McBride, a student nurse and the Misses Edna and Dorothy Livingston, daughters of Captain William C. Livingston, now stationed at Tacoma. When not putting in their periods of polo practice, the young women are ministering to the wants of disabled war veterans.

An old time pugilist of several decades ago was thanking his stars that he did his road work while training for a bout before the general use of automobile and the laying of concrete roads. "Of course the boys of today don't know anything better, but I'd hate to be churning off the miles on a concrete pavement with automobiles rushing and roaring along from behind me and wondering when the next one was going to crash into me and send me to kingdom come. Autos are everywhere today and I fancy there must be a lot of gas that has to be taken into the lungs of a man who is fitting himself on the public roads."

One hundred feet wide and a thousand feet long are the dimensions of the out-door swimming pool that San Francisco is completing as a municipal means of diversion for the public. There has been a tremendous revival of swimming in California which began ten years ago and has continued ever since. This great out-door pool will have its water tempered by electricity so it may be used in any kind of weather. A row of bathhouses to windward acts as a wind shield.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Fourteen days after the opening of the American League season Everett Scott, iron-clad shortstop of the New York Yankees, is expected to reach the 1,000-game goal for consecutive playing and then probably will turn his attention to what-ever marks lie immediately beyond. Scott's is a laudable record as is likely to stand as an epic of durability in the years to come, but it will be just as well for the Yankees and the player himself if he can proceed to forget all about records at an early date.

The strain of playing day after day without let up has taken its toll on Scott's ability as a ball player, according to close students of the sport, and the fact that he played a stationary shortstop during the last world's series is cited as evidence that he had become stale from overwork at that time. This can happen again very readily and just as inconveniently if Scott persists in shooting at marks beyond his present record, they claim.

They do not, of course, advocate that the player vote himself a vacation in the midst of the championship season. Neither, however, do they wish him to play individual baseball at the expense of the team. The charge that Scott has "played for his average," as the saying goes has never been substantiated, but if there is any truth in it the Yanks would benefit if the charm over Scott could be broken. He could then settle down to day-to-day baseball and forget his records.

As matters stand Scott has appeared in 584 consecutive games since early in 1916—in all, 103 in 1916, 157 in 1917, 126 and 138, respectively, in the abbreviated seasons of 1918 and 1919, and 154 games each in the last three years. That is too much ball playing to be good for any man.

In fact, Scott might do well to take counsel from what is being said and written about him. Hardly an old man, even in a baseball sense, he is being characterized by many critics as passe. In the writer's opinion he has five years of useful service before him if he can be made to realize that he is making a martyr of himself for the sake of an obscure paragraph in the record book.

BASEBALL SQUAD TO STAGE DANCE

Benefit Affair Will Be Held On Friday Night for Local Club

The stage is all set for the Glendale Baseball club's big dance at the Odd Fellows' hall, Friday night, April 6, announces Manager Walt Heidler of the team, who says that it is assured there is a good time in store for everyone who attends.

The proceeds of this dance, it is stated, are to go toward bettering the equipment of the team, for the erection of a grandstand and backstop, and for additional financing of a whirlwind start into the fast Valley league, where by hard work they have earned a berth.

The league is scheduled to open up a week from Sunday, and the dance must go over big to enable the Glendale team to start off on the right foot, Manager Heidler feels.

Signs Good Team

He states that he has gotten together a fine team of clever players, every one of whom lives in Glendale and is for the home town 100 per cent. The boys are all pushing for the dance for all they are worth and want to see it come through in fine shape.

The admission is $1.10 a couple, which will all go to boost Glendale. Manager Heidler states, by giving local fans a team that will advertise the city all up and down the valley.

FIGHT RESULTS

AT PITTSBURGH—Marty Burke of New Orleans and Jack Renault of Canada fought eight rounds and started the ninth. Referee Joe Kelly called off the bout. Alleged stalling was his reason.

AT BUFFALO—Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo, defeated Frankie Callahan, Columbus, ten rounds. Jack Oakes, Omaha, and Benny Ross, Buffalo, were disqualified in third round for lack of pep.

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—Harry Krause or Ira Colwell will pitch the opening game for the Oakland club today, was the announcement made by Manager Ivan Howard.

COAST CLUBS IN DRIVE FOR FLAG

Season Opens Today Under Ideal Conditions in Four Cities

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—"Bigger and better in every way" the Pacific Coast league inaugurated another season today.

Opening of the 1923 season was marked by the try-out of a new baseball city—Fresno. On account of uncertain weather conditions at home, Salt Lake is opening its schedule at the Raisin city.

Despite dire predictions on the part of the weather man, it appeared likely that good weather would usher in the premiere of the season in all four cities.

Vernon tangled here with San Francisco. Portland clashed at Sacramento with Colonel Charley Pick's pennant aspirants; Seattle participated with Salt Lake in Fresno's curtain-raiser and Oakland battled with Marty Krug's clan at Los Angeles.

Today's Batteries

Batteries announced for today follow:

At San Francisco—Seals, Courtney and Yelle; Vernon, May or Doyle and Hannah.

At San Francisco—Portland, Yarrison and Casey or Crumpler and Sutherland; Sacramento, Yelowhorse or Fittery and Koehler.

At Fresno—Seattle, Gardner and Yaryan; Salt Lake, Myers and Peters.

At Los Angeles—Oakland, Arlett and Thomas; Los Angeles, Lyons and Baldwin.

Harry White, Niagara Falls, defeated Fritz Meiler, Lancaster, eight rounds. Johnny Ward, McKeesport, Pa., defeated Carl Smith, Rochester, in six rounds.

ANGELS WILL BE FLAG CONTENDER

Marty Krug Predicts Club Will Finish Among First in League

By MARTY KRUG
Manager Los Angeles Baseball Club
For International News Service

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—It appears to have been my good fortune to have been appointed to manage one of the best clubs in the Pacific Coast league. I am not given to making a prediction this early in the race as to where the Angels will finish, but must say that the club that beats us will win the pennant. I am confident after watching my men in practice that we will be in the fight for the leadership from start to finish.

There is every reason to be confident in our club. In all my experience in training camps I have never seen more real hustling spirit than has been shown since I was appointed manager. There has not been a shirker on the club and every man, with the exception of this Crandall, is going to enter the race in tip-top condition. Not only is there an abundance of brains and skill, but there is experience and determination to be regarded as the cleverest infield in the league.

Heavy Hitters

At the plate we have the punch. Take Deal, Hood and Griggs. Three harder hitters will not be found in the league. Besides, they are smart and exceedingly dependable in the pinches. I have no fear about our hitting strength, for besides Deal, Hood and Griggs we have McCabe, Carroll, Lindmore, Twohally, Coleman, Baldwin, Daly and Rego who will swat the ball for better than a .300 average. And I expect to do a little hitting myself.

We are a bit unfortunate in opening the season with Crandall on the sick list. Yet we are strongly fortified in having high class pitchers like Lyons, Hughes, Jones, Wallace, Thomas and Ponder. Where could one find a finer array of pitchers than that? It cannot be done in the Pacific Coast league. Jones, a left hander, who was with the Cubs last season, has made such wonderful advancement this spring that I believe he is going to give Jackie May a run for the honor of being the best southpaw in the league.

A cloth, moistened with gasoline used once or twice a week, to remove mud from tires, will greatly lengthen the life of the rubber.

Outfield Strong

Ping Bodie did not get away to a good start last season as he was not eligible to play until the middle of May. This year he is in condition as a result of training with the rest of the players. Bodie, High, Chadbourne and Schneider are the regular outfielders while Perry O'Brien and Vern Blenkiron are the youngsters who look good.

"Truck" Hannah and Denny Murphy are the catchers who will do the bulk of the work. Zenie also is working hard.

The pitching staff, one of the main reasons why the club finished second last year, looks good.

Jackie May, "Wheeler" Dell, Jim Jolley, Bill James, Ray Gilder and Jess Doyle were with the club last season and they look as good this year. The pitchers have not come through as fast as I expected but they are just about ready to start the season.

Several of the young twirlers, Jacobs, Minnery and Trautwein, have looked good.

I believe our infield will be considerably stronger than last year and that the outfield also will show more strength. We have a plate and I also believe the pitching staff will do as good work.

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—Someone moved into the hollow statue in front of the Honolulu Public Library and lived there some time before he was discovered, writes Irene Corbally Kuhn, Honolulu correspondent.

TOMORROW—H. C. Hamilton of Atlanta, Ga., tells of two developments of interest to automobile owners and oil men.

By IRENE CORBALLY KUHN
For International News Service

HONOLULU, April 3.—The Library of Hawaii has been running a hotel on its front porch for some time, although the interesting fact has only just been discovered by the library officials, the Honolulu police and Honolulu in general.

On the lanai of the library, Jacross from the capitol grounds is a plaster of paris statue of the "Winged Victory." In the statue is the "hotel," until recently inhabited either by a modern Diogenes, the world's shyest man, or a homeless victim of the housing shortage, or perhaps, the "Houdini of the Pacific" himself, Ira Culver Sparks, who recently made himself famous by crossing the Pacific in a specially constructed packing box, fitted up with sleeping quarters, food space, inventory, etcetera.

"Shre, it must be Sparks," said the eagle-eyed janitor of the library, after he had inadvertently discovered that in the hollow interior of the library's decorative statue were milk bottles, bread crusts, bedding and other evidences of recent human habitation.

"That guy's ancestors must have been in the crowd that climbed into the wooden horse and got themselves inside the walls of Troy in the old days," he continued. (This is a library janitor, by the way, should skeptics doubt that he really said this.)

The discovery of the "hotel" in the statue was purely accidental. The janitor of the library had business on the second floor of the building, and while there his roving eyes espied through the hole in the top of the statue suspicious evidence. He climbed into the statue and fished out the aforementioned milk bottles, bedding, etcetera.

The detective department looked into the one-room "hostelry." The military police also inspected the artistic premises, as the military dragnet is out for an alleged deserter.

The janitor scoffs at all theories but his own—that the recent guest of the library's statue was Sparks.

BAY CITY WOMAN DIES IN LONDON

Wealthy Realty Owner Dies In British Hotel on World Tour

LONDON, April 3.—Mrs. May Mellon Bowie, formerly of California, and understood to be the wife of an American millionaire, died in a London hotel Monday.

Papers found in her room indicated the woman had travelled widely after she left San Francisco two years ago. Since her arrival here she kept entirely to herself.

The body was found by her maid, fully garbed in evening dress decorated with resplendent jewels. Mrs. Bowie died sitting in a chair.

Invested in Realty
SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—Mrs. May Mellon Bowie, reported dead in London dispatches, was well known in San Francisco before the fire as Jessie Hayman.

During her thirty years' residence here she amassed a fortune estimated anywhere from a quarter of a million to a million dollars, all being tied up in real estate except $100,000, which was in diamonds.

BRITISH TRY TO HALT EXECUTION

Soviet Calls Interference Unfriendly Act in Curt Refusal

MOSCOW, April 3.—The British delegation, in an appeal today to Foreign Minister Tchitcherine against the execution of Catholic Vice-General Monsignor Butkevich, declared such an act would "arouse horror and indignation hardly desirable by the Russian government."

The Soviet's reply asserted Russia's right to sentence law breakers according to its own code and charged outside attempt at interference in dealing with spies and traitors is an unfriendly act.

Gregory Winsten, who signed the Soviet reply, pointed out that he received an appeal from the Irish republican leaders, which charged Britain with responsibility for the execution of political prisoners in Ireland.

In view of such incidents in Ireland, India and Egypt, the Russian government is unable to receive the appeal of the British government in the name of humanity. Winsten stated.

A Suitable War Memorial For Glendale

PATRIOTIC HALL AND ROLL OF HONOR TREES

OR some time the American Forestry Association of Washington, D. C., has been registering memorial trees, offering a permanent record of trees dedicated to men and women of America, particularly to men who died in the service during the World War. When Vincent B. Costello Post of Washington decided to register the 532 trees planted on Sixteenth street, from Upshur street to Alaska avenue, well past the Walter Reed Hospital, it ran into the difficulty of registering all the trees on one sheet. However, that difficulty was overcome by the simple expedient of getting a ten-foot-long roll of paper. The tree for Costello is No. 101. Each of the trees is marked with a bronze plate set in concrete at the base of the tree and each Memorial Day the trees are decorated. Besides the Sixteenth street memorials, thousands of trees in other parts of the country are also being registered with the association. All that is necessary to secure such registration is to file with the American Forestry Association a list of any memorial trees which may be planted. The association will record the name of the man or woman for whom the tree is memorialized, with facts regarding the variety of trees and its location.

Glendale Post and Auxiliary have under consideration feasible plans for a public memorial for each or all of the comrades from Glendale who have "gone west" in the service of our country.

Many proposals have been advanced. Memorial trees and tablets as described above; flagstaff with memorial base; fountain, bridge, outdoor tablet in bronze, memorial gateway, portrait statue, group of statuary, park or a memorial building suited to the needs of all patriotic societies are among the suggestions.

The Post and Auxiliary at the present time seem most favorably inclined to the patriotic societies Memorial building with memorial trees and tablets dedicated to the individual "Gold Stars."

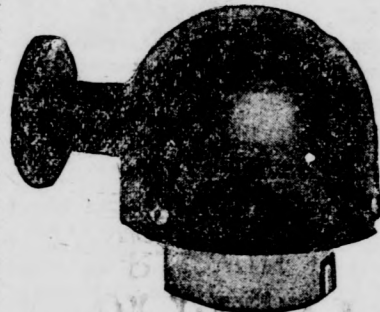

It is also planned to appoint an advisory committee of twenty-five prominent citizens to aid the Legion and Auxiliary in this matter and others which may from time to time come before them, thus maintaining close touch with the entire city.

INVERTED MOLDED TUBE RECEPTACLE

This is a beautiful tube receptacle of the molded type suitable for mounting on panels where it is desired to use the tubes in the inverted position. The contact springs are provided with flexible leads which pass through the back of the panel. It has a handsome black polished finish which adds greatly to any receiving set or control panel. It is designed to take the standard four-prong receiving tube base.

RADIO DEVELOPMENT

By LIEUT. JOHN R. IRWIN
U. S. AIR SERVICE (RESERVE)

THE ACTION OF THE TWO ELECTRODE TUBE

In the preceding article we explained the construction of a simple two-electrode vacuum tube, which is simply a heated filament in a glass bulb containing a complete vacuum and a metal plate as the second electrode, neither plate nor filament touching each other. We pointed out that the action of these tubes, which were the forerunners of the wonderful tubes of today depends upon the fact that when a metal is heated in a vacuum it gives off electrons into surrounding space.

As an understanding of a vacuum tube is based upon the action of these electrons, a study of this electron theory is important. Matter of all kinds is made up of atoms, which are extremely small portions of matter (a drop of water contains billions of them). These atoms in turn contain electrons, which consist of negative electricity. The electrons are all alike and are much smaller than atoms. Besides containing electrons, each atom contains a certain amount of positive electricity. Normally the positive and negative electricity are just about equal. However, some of the electrons are not held so firmly to the atom but what they can escape if the atom is violently knocked or jarred. Therefore, when an electron, negatively charged, leaves an atom, there is less negative electricity in this condition the atom is said to be positively charged. The atoms in matter are constantly in motion, and when they strike against one another electrons are jarred, as it were, from the atom. These electrons then move about freely between the atoms. Heat has an effect upon this process.

No Rubber Shortage, Says Goodrich Head

AKRON, Ohio, April 3.—B. G. Work, president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, which is one of the strong members of the American Rubber association, has taken issue with Harvey S. Firestone, head of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, in the latter's drive to establish rubber plantations in tropical America to fight the export tax imposed in territory controlled by the British government.

Work, who has recently returned from a European tour, in a statement issued, declared there would be no shortage, despite the misleading figures given out by Mr. Firestone. He pointed out that the export tax up to a certain point was nominal. It increased beyond that point in order to protect the growers themselves. "The tax is paid by the exporter and not by the buyer," Work said. "The additional tax provides an automatic check to surplus exportation."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

"UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE MOLASSES
"Uncle Wiggily, if you have nothing special to do right away, I wish you would go to the store for me," said Nurse Jane Wiggily to the rabbit gentleman one day.

"It will give me great pleasure to go to the store for you," answered Mr. Longears, with a low and polite bow of his pink, twinkling nose. "What do you want, Nurse Jane?"

"I am going to have some of the animal ladies here to tea, this afternoon," replied the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I want to bake molasses cake and let them sip lemonade through straws."

"Do you want me to make the molasses cake or the lemonade?" asked Uncle Wiggily, laying aside his tail, silk hat that he had put on over his ears. "I'll do either one."

"Thank you," laughed Nurse Jane, "but if you will bring me a jug of molasses from the grocery, and stop at Dr. Possum's drug store soda fountain and bring me a bundle of hollow straws, I'll attend to the rest."

"I'll do that," said Uncle Wiggily, and soon he was hopping on his way to the molasses store with the empty jug. "And I mustn't forget about the straws," thought the bunny rabbit gentleman. "The animal ladies are going to sip lemonade through straws as the boys and girls do when they get an ice cream soda."

It did not take the rabbit gentleman long to get the jug filled with molasses, and soon afterward Dr. Possum gave him a fine bundle of clean, yellow straws, just the right length for sipping lemonade through.

Uncle Wiggily was hopping to his hollow stump bungalow with the molasses and straws, when, all of a sudden, he began to feel sleepy.

"I think it must be the spring fever coming on," thought Mr. Longears, as he yawned and stretched. "I'll just sit down near the path and take a little sleep."

Placing the molasses jug and straws beside him, Uncle Wiggily was soon asleep. And while he slept along came Sammie and Susie Littlebit, the rabbits. They smelled the sweet molasses in the jug and they saw the bundle of sipping straws near by.

"Oh, look, Susie!" whispered Sammie. "Uncle Wiggily must want us to sip some molasses through the straws. See, he has everything all ready for us, even if he is asleep. Come on, we'll sip some molasses."

"All right," agreed Susie, "that must be what the straws are for." So she and Sammie took the fork from the jug and through the straws they sipped some molasses, and very good it was.

Then, without awakening the bunny gentleman, Sammie and Susie hopped off to play, after putting the cork back in the jug. Soon Mr. Longears opened his eyes, stretched, yawned and started off once more.

"My! How much stronger I feel after my sleep," he said. "This jug of molasses isn't as heavy as it was. I certainly am stronger." But soon he felt sleepy again, on account of the wind, and once more he stretched out beside the path and closed his eyes. And, as he slept, along came Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels.

"Oh!" chattered Johnnie. "Uncle Wiggily must want us to sip some molasses through the straws. He has left everything all ready for us."

So they took the fork from the jug and through the straws they sipped some molasses, and very good it was.

PROTEST TAX ON AUTO BUS LINES

Fight in Senate Committee
On Plan to Levy Tax
On Earnings

Special to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, April 3: The Pacific Electric Land Company, which operates a couple of motor buses in Glendale as feeders to the Los Angeles line, has been under discussion in the hearing before the senate committee which is considering the Arbuckle bill which would levy a seven per cent license tax on the gross earnings of motor carriers.

W. E. Travis, representing the company, told of the purchase of eight buses to encircle Los Angeles, while Attorney J. E. McCurdy, representing similar interests, questioned the sincerity of the measure. Both admitted that the motor bus concerns made little or nothing and claimed that additional taxation would be the straw that would break the camel's back.

M. D. Lack, secretary of the state equalization board, defended the measure against the attack, finally ending the hearing after midnight with the invitation that they all get together and amend the bill.

Another lengthy performance is scheduled tonight in the assembly judiciary hearing on the Hornblower bill to repeal the criminal syndicalism law.

OHIO VISITOR TO ENTER BUSINESS

Cincinnati Realtor Plans to Invest Heavily in Glendale Realty

Glendale has so favorably impressed August Mardorf, both as a business and residential section, that he has decided to open a realty office in this city and to engage in this branch of business on a large scale, bringing with him from his home in Cincinnati, Ohio, several members of his family and of his present real estate selling organization, which numbers between forty and fifty men. He also intends to invest close to $500,000 in Glendale realty as soon as he has completed the survey that he has been making since his arrival here over a week ago, during which time he and Mrs. Mardorf have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vogel at the latter's home, 425 Kenwood avenue.

Buys Property
Mr. Mardorf has been in this state for several weeks and has already bought a block of property in one of the choicest residential districts of San Diego, where he will establish an office as soon as he is ready to place his property on the market, but his Glendale office will deal almost exclusively with business property, he states, as he is convinced from what he has been able to learn since his arrival here, and from what he is able to deduce from his years of experience in the real estate business, that the profits that lie in Glendale business realty are bound to be generous.

The firm of E. A. Mardorf Co. of Cincinnati is made up of several sons of Glendale's visitor and embraces a large staff of real estate experts, some of whom will be transferred to the Glendale office as soon as it is opened.

Improvement of Alley
This being the time for hearing protests against the improvement of the first alley east of Louise street and portions of Kenwood street, it was moved by Councilman Davis, seconded by Councilman Kimlin, that all protests be denied.

Residential District
This being the time for hearing to set aside Jackson street from Wilson to Doran as first class residential district, clerk reported no protests received and there were no protestants present.

America May Be Seat Of Old Civilization

BOSTON, April 3.—You may have a treasure-laden tomb of a king of an era older than that of Tut-Ankh-Amen right in your backyard. Under your potato patch or your front porch may rest a sarcophagus of a potentate who ruled centuries before old King Tut was even thought of.

For according to ancient Hindu tradition, declared Swami Yogananda, of the University of Calcutta, who, on behalf of the Maharajah of Kasimbahar, has established the first Sat-Sanga in this country in this city, there was a civilization on this continent while Egypt, which later became the seat of civilization, was a wilderness inhabited by primitive aboriginals.

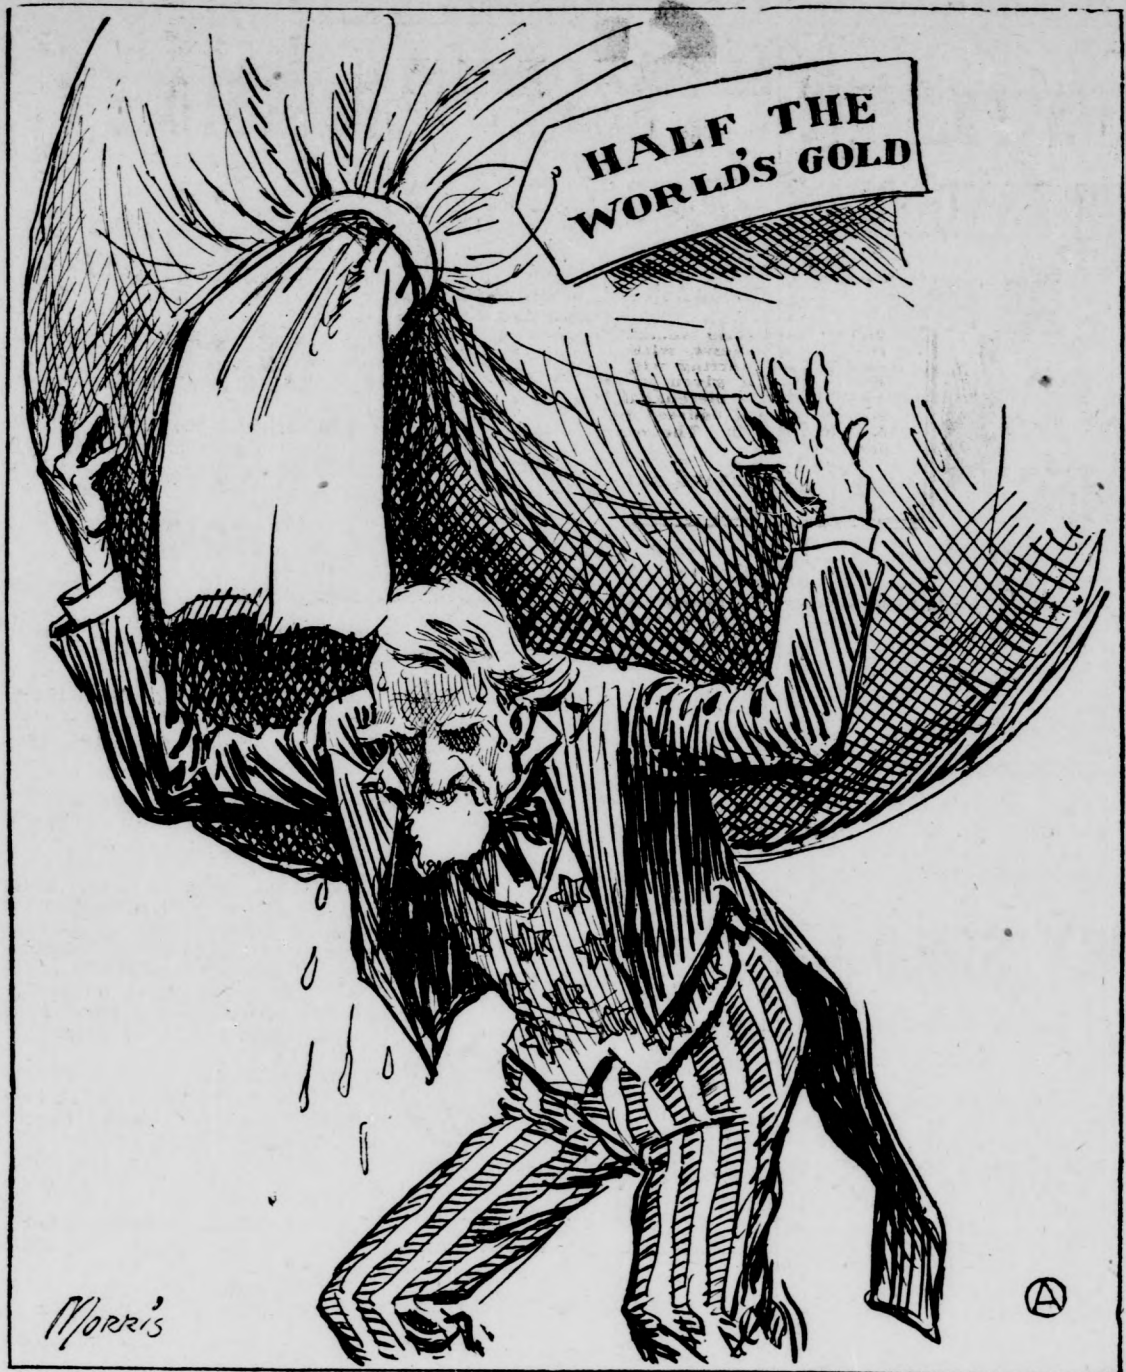

"According to the traditions handed down from centuries and centuries ago by the ancient Yogis," said Yogananda, "far back in the distant ages there was a civilization far in the West—probably on the American continent—long before Egypt became civilized. Ethnologists have remarked a resemblance between the characteristics of the ancient Egyptians and the American Indian. It is by no means improbable that the American Indian represents the degenerated race of the ancient culture which existed on this continent. Certain South American Indians—the Incas, for example, who even at the time of the discovery of this continent maintained a high type of civilization—bore striking resemblance to the Egyptians, not only in form and feature, but in customs."

"So that it is highly probable that if the American excavators who discovered Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, with its vast treasures, were to dig deep enough right here in the United States they would find similar ones."

A physician says: "If you would get a rest, tour the country during your vacation." He probably means: "If you would get rested."

the same width and about fifty-six feet long. This will open into a ten-foot corridor which will divide the building from north to south and will provide an entrance from Glendale avenue.

The hotel office will be located on the north side of this corridor directly in front of the main entrance. These will consist of an outer office, and a private office with a vault under the stairs. To the right will be two passenger elevators while to the left will be the first flight of the main staircase.

On the north side of the right half of this corridor will be a women's parlor, a women's rest room, and a coat room.

On the north side of the left half of this corridor will be a writing room, a men's wash room and a barber shop.

The hotel dining room will be located at the extreme eastern end of the first floor. It will be about thirty-six by sixty-five feet in size and will be capable of seating 200 persons on ordinary occasions and 300 at banquets. The kitchen and service hall will be located in the rear. To the east side of the building adjoining the dining room will be left an open space of ten feet which will be landscaped.

Both fronts of the building will be divided into stores to suit tenants. Present plans call for five stores on Broadway and one on Glendale avenue. These will not only face the street but will have show windows on the main corridor.

Electric Refrigerator
Living rooms will be about twelve by fifteen feet in size and dressing rooms will be about five by eight. All apartments will contain gas fireplaces, and circulating ice water. Each kitchen will have an electric refrigerator which will obviate the necessity of using ice. Shutters from each floor will descend to an incinerator in the basement. Heat generated from the consumption of garbage and refuse will be used in the hot water system.

Mrs. Mabel L. Tight of 612 East Broadway is the chairman of the hotel committee. Other members are: P. J. Hayselden, F. W. McIntyre, C. F. Stuart, C. W. Ingledue, W. E. Mercer, S. C. Kinch, H. L. Finlay, E. E. Harpington, W. L. Truitt, R. M. Brown, Herman Nelson, Anthony Ambrosini, James Webb and Leon Sonntag.

A sub-committee, which recommended the endorsement of the plans, was composed of H. L. Finlay, F. W. McIntyre and W. E. Mercer.

C. W. Ingledue of 501 East Wilson avenue is president of the Ambrosini Hotel company. Other directors are C. F. Stuart, Mrs. Mabel L. Tight, S. C. Kinch and T. H. Mink.

LETTER CARRIERS' BALL
Is Pronounced Success

That the grand Easter ball given by the Letter Carriers' association of the Glendale postoffice was a decided success was conceded by the vast crowd who attended last night at the Chamber of Commerce dance hall. About 150 couples were present, in addition to a large number of extra ladies, who were all admitted free. It would appear that it was the cream of Glendale's younger set who graced the occasion by their presence. All were profuse in the expression of their delight in being present at this, the first opening ball given by the Postmen. The mail toters were showered with congratulations on every side, and feel highly elated over the success of the affair.

Life insurance companies hold nearly $1,500,000,000 of farm mortgages, more than any other class of investors.

body which itself refuses to follow the law is not entitled to confidence or respect."

All questions were laid aside yesterday for the funeral of the late Dr. G. H. Douglas, assemblyman from Del Norte and Siskiyou counties. Beautiful floral offerings mingled with the sombre drapes in the assembly hall and there the last sad rites were observed.

It was a state funeral with all of the impressive dignity that could be afforded one who served his district, state and nation well in the course of an honorable life. More than likely the bridge linking California and Oregon highways which Dr. Douglas so sought will be built in his memory.

Baseball Season
The baseball season of the Sacramento Senators is due to open today with Governor Richardson throwing the first ball.

The heavy rains the last of the week turned into a regular storm Monday afternoon with some little damage to power lines as a result of a stiff wind. Nobody complains, however, for water was needed badly by the farmers in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys.

Two weeks more of wet weather would not be any too much, although it would retard the season. And if much snow falls on the mountains the late season may cause some unprecedented floods.

However, the sun is shining brightly this morning and it appears that the rain is over for the time being.

MOTION PICTURE HOUSE IS BUILT

Building to Be Enlarged as Patronage Increases,
Owner Plans

Tujunga's first motion picture theatre is rapidly nearing completion and will open Saturday, April 7. The building is located next to the Griffin-Cruickshank building, on Sunset. Ralph Perronnet is the owner and promises to give the first showing on that date. The wiring is all in and all that remains to be done is some minor work on the walls. The house will have a seating capacity of 300, and Mr. Perronnet plans to give shows every evening, with matinees on Saturday and Sunday. There will be a complete change of program three times a week. He has secured for the opening date "The Kentucky Derby," with Reginald Denny in the leading role.

The projection room is floored with metal and the sides and ceiling lined with asbestos to reduce the fire hazard to a minimum. Mrs. B. B. Reynolds has been engaged to play the piano at all performances.

This is the first determined attempt in this field that has been projected here. There have been several attempts to establish picture shows in makeshift buildings, but, owing to lack of facilities and sometimes experience, each of these attempts has fallen by the wayside. The management has purchased a lot adjoining the building, and if the patronage warrants the theatre building will be enlarged to nearly double the present capacity. If the venture proves successful, of which there seems little doubt from the interest the public is showing in the opening show, a larger and more substantial building will be built over the present frame structure, using brick or concrete, and taking in the entire fifty feet frontage.

Richard J. Smith and W. M. Allardice have announced the opening date of their popular Garden of the Moon open air dance pavilion for Saturday, April 14. Mr. Smith is a local contractor and builder, and was interested

EAGLE ROCK

TELLS WHY SATAN ALLOWED TO LIVE

Pastor Prout Is Speaker at Adventist Tabernacle on Theological Question

The question, why an omnipotent God doesn't destroy the devil, was answered at the Seventh Day Adventist tabernacle on Myrtle avenue, Eagle Rock, Sunday night by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Prout. As always, in answering theological questions, Rev. Prout read the answer from the Bible, quoting passages in both the old and the new testaments.

"There is a personal devil," the speaker said, "but he is not what he is represented to be in the cartoons, where he is shown with horns, hoofs, and a tail. Satan, the scripture tells us, fell from heaven. In heaven he was not known as Satan, but his name was Lucifer, meaning light bearer. How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning!" O Lucifer, son of the morning," exclaims the prophet Isaiah, ch. 14, v. 12. The prophet Ezekiel speaks of him as 'The anointed cherub that covereth,' ch. 28, v. 14, and says he was perfect in his ways from the day that he was created, until iniquity was found in him, v. 15. These texts answer the question as to who made the devil. God never made a devil. He created Lucifer, an exalted angel, beautiful and perfect in his ways until he lost his allegiance to God. How this happened is told us by the prophets. 'Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty,' says Ezekiel, ch. 28, v. 17, and not being content with his exalted station as covering cherub, he aspired, Isaiah tells us, to 'Be like the Most High,' ch. 14, v. 12-14. He wanted to be God; and in attempting to realize this unholy ambition he made himself the devil. So the devil, in a sense, made himself; and to say that God made the devil is a wholly unjust charge against God.

Have Free Minds
The angels of heaven, like the people of earth, were created with free minds, for the Creator wants love from His creatures, hence must give them freedom of choice in their attitude toward Him. He is not responsible for the choice made by Lucifer or for the choice made by any being who prefers to seek his own way contrary to God's will.

Lucifer rebelled against God, and persuaded many of the angels of heaven to join him in his rebellion. They listened to what Lucifer said about God, because they reasoned, just as people do now, that one in so exalted a position, and with such a reputation for wisdom, must surely be telling the truth. Later, when it was too late, they discovered their mistake. Lucifer and his sympathizers were finally expelled from heaven, but they did not go willingly. 'There was war in heaven,' John tells us, ch. 12, v. 7; 'Michael and his angels fought against the dragon (Satan), and the dragon fought, and his angels, and prevailed not.' He was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him, v. 9.

Question of Justice
"Why did not God destroy Lucifer, instead of merely casting him out of heaven? If He had done so, it would have settled nothing but the question of which one was the stronger, God or Lucifer. But Lucifer had raised the question of in the Garden last season with Marvin Selleck. Mr. Selleck recently sold his interest to W. M. Allardice, also a local man. They are planning a number of novelties in the entertainment line for the coming season, one of which will be a souvenir dance on opening night.

They have engaged Jake Wesner's saxophone jazz orchestra that proved so popular with the crowds last season. Joseph Frick will be manager in charge, and in anticipation of a successful season and future in Tujunga, he is moving his family from Los Angeles, where he was connected with a building company.

There will be several refreshment concessions, tentative plans for which include a new soda fountain to be presided over by Mrs. Mary Begue. Limited facilities prevented a satisfactory handling of this popular commodity last season, and precautions will be taken to handle an expected increase in the business this year.

The floor will be thoroughly sanded and surfaced and enlarged substantially to eliminate the crowding experienced last summer, when the place became so popular that the crowd could not be comfortably accommodated. The present plan includes the building of booths to accommodate large parties, which are always popular with both out-of-town parties and local people who are entertaining out-of-town guests.

In addition to these features, there will be the swimming pool under the oak trees, stone ovens for the picnicking motorists, sand piles and "teeter" boards for the children, and tables and benches under the trees next to the dance pavilion.

OXY TEACHER IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Prof. J. C. Shedd Sustains
Broken Leg in Crash on
Los Angeles Street

John C. Shedd, professor of physics at Occidental college, was struck by an automobile in Los Angeles Saturday morning and suffered a broken leg. He was taken by friends to the offices of Dr. Charles B. Dirks, in the Brockman building, where an X-ray was taken, showing the fracture to be between the ankle and the knee.

Professor Shedd was taken to his home at 219 West Colorado boulevard, Eagle Rock, and the broken leg put in a plaster cast, since which time he has been resting as comfortably as can be expected, reports Mrs. Shedd.

The accident occurred at about 10:30 in the morning, while the professor was crossing Los Angeles street, near Fifth. The driver of the car is reported to have volunteered assistance, but as Professor Shedd was accompanied by friends, this assistance was not necessary.

No steps have been taken in establishing blame for the accident, it is understood.

Mr. and Mrs. Bachman of 159 Rowland avenue spent last week-end on the desert.

T. B. McNary, of 805 South Central avenue, has returned home, after a trip to Oceanside, on business, on which he was accompanied by C. R. Soules.

God's justice, claiming that His government was tyrannical. God could easily have demonstrated His omnipotence, but His character had to be vindicated before the angels, and also (after Adam's fall) before the inhabitants of the earth. He did not propose to make anyone a chance to say that God killed Lucifer because he could not overcome him any other way. So he left Satan free to work out a demonstration of his principles before all beings, and when finally Satan is destroyed in the lake of fire, all the universe will say 'Amen.'

Stereoscopic pictures will be shown Wednesday night, and the subject will be "The Tragedy of Calvary: Why Was It Necessary for Christ to Die?"

BURBANK

ENGINEER TELLS BURBANK GROWTH

Year's Street Paving Record
Cited as Indication of Progress

The completion of the present street paving contracts in Burbank, with the rest of the work that has been finished during the last year, will give the city seventeen miles of new paving, according to a statement made by City Engineer Miller at the luncheon of the Burbank Rotary club, in which he declared that there are now twenty-one streets on which work is being done. Some of these streets are being surfaced with macadam, some with concrete, others with gravel and still others are being oil tamped.

Engineer Miller quoted figures showing that almost thirteen miles of paving work is now in progress, and, in addition to the paving, a number of improvements are being made in opening streets and in reducing grades.

Another important comparison was made by Engineer Miller when he stated that the Burbank electric light department, when he came to the city in 1915, had a capacity of 65 horsepower, as contrasted with 3600 horsepower today, while the number of consumers had increased in the same time from 276 in 1850. The city's water department furnishes equally interesting figures, he declared. In 1915 there were approximately 20 miles of pipe, which has been increased as the city has grown until there are today 65 miles of pipe in use, with a reservoir containing 1,800,000 gallons as compared with one-tenth of that capacity in 1915.

Presentation of the charter to the recently organized Rotary Club of Burbank is to be held on April 9, at 6:30 p. m., when dinner will be served at the Sunset Canyon Country club. District Governor Jack Williams of Long Beach will present the charter to the Burbank Rotarians. Arrangements have been made to send a delegation to the annual conference of Rotary Clubs that meets at Long Beach on April 5, 6 and 7.

The Bohemian Players of Burbank have adopted a constitution and by-laws and have chosen Mrs. Walter Fisher as president. With Harry J. Valentine, Mrs. A. C. Fillbach and Dr. L. F. Hazeltine as the board of governors. The Bohemian Players is composed of former professionals and their associates who plan to present a number of high class dramatic entertainments during each season.

The Burbank Woman's club has authorized its directors to enter into a contract with the architect for the completion of the plans and specifications of the new clubhouse that is to be built. An Arts and Crafts section will be added to the other departments of the club, as the requisite number of names has been secured and all that is needed now is the approval of the directors.

MONTROSE

BUILDING SOON TO BE DEDICATED

Community Structure, Sparr
Heights, Being Finished;
New Business Home

The Community building in Sparr Heights is now over half finished and it is expected that it can be dedicated in another six weeks.

Plastering is under way this week and will continue until finished. The contract was awarded to B. L. Sutton and W. B. Sutton of 305 Geneva street, who operate under the name of Sutton Brothers.

This building, which is 66x98 feet in size is being much admired by passersby on Verdugo road. It represents a considerable investment on the part of the Barnum-Walters company.

According to M. Walters, there are no strings whatever attached to this gift and it will be given to the people of Glendale.

"There is a rumor that we are raising the price of the lots in Sparr Heights to pay for this building," admitted H. E. Barnum. "There is nothing to it."

Realty In Demand
Business property is moving very rapidly in Montrose. Anyhow, such is the opinion of F. W. Parr and O. L. Zook, who are maintaining a branch office at 631 Honolulu avenue, Montrose. Both of them are very enthusiastic about this suburb of Glendale.

A business building at 629 Honolulu avenue will be commenced in the immediate future for H. Reimers. It will be one story in height and will be divided into two stories. The cost will be about $15,000. The frontage will be forty feet on the north side of Honolulu avenue, and the depth will be sixty feet. Christman-Palladine of 115 West Broadway have been given the contract.
